Hadrian's Wall (Latin: Vallum Aelium, Italian: Vallo di Adriano) is a stone or turf and timber fortification built by the Roman Empire across the width of what is now northern England. Begun in 122, during the rule of Emperor Hadrian, it was the first of two fortifications built across great Britain, the second being the Antonine Wall in what is now Scotland. Hadrian's wall is the best known of the two because its physical remains are most evident today.

Alnwick 城堡介绍

Alnwick Castle is a family day out to fire the imagination. Home to the Duke and Duchess of Northumberland, it is one of the largest inhabited castles in England and is known as the Windsor of the North. The castle has dominated the town since medieval times and you may recognize it from its recent starring role as Hogwarts in the Harry Potter series of films. But the castle is not just a famous film location and inside its battlements you'll find a host of activities based around Alnwick's rich history.
